“Russia’s development – simply by virtue of its size, history, culture, human potential, and economic opportunities – cannot take place outside the global context. [...] We are grateful to our guests for their attention and friendly attitude to Russia and their willingness to engage in business cooperation that always rests on pragmatism, understanding of mutual interests and, of course, trust in each other, as well as frankness and clear-cut positions. [...] Today in Russia, we have embarked on implementing strategic long-term programmes, many of which are global in nature. The speed and scale of today’s changes in the world are unprecedented in history, and in the coming era, it is important for us to hear each other and pool our efforts to resolve common goals. Russia is ready for these challenges and changes. We invite all of you to take part in this large-scale and equitable cooperation.”

VLADIMIR PUTIN

President of the Russian Federation

“This year’s Forum in St. Petersburg is being held under the theme ‘Creating a Sustainable Development Agenda’, which addresses the concerns of the international community and is of great importance. [...] In a changing world, joint efforts and mutually beneficial partnerships are the correct path to follow for all countries, without exception. [...] When working together internationally, it is imperative to have partners who are sincere, trustworthy, and likeminded. Russia is not only our largest neighbour and a major strategic partner, it is also one of our most important and high-priority partners across every sphere.”

XI JINPING

President of the People’s Republic of China

“The St. Petersburg Forum has cemented its status as a key event in global economics and politics. It is a platform for discussing vital issues affecting global development today. The participation of the President of Bulgaria, the prime ministers of Slovakia and Armenia, and two global leaders sends a very powerful message. It speaks of the importance of the idea of sustainable development, and how it can only be achieved when all nations work towards this goal.”

RUMEN RADEV

President of the Republic of Bulgaria

“For countries such as Armenia, it is crucial that access to global economic centres and initiatives is institutionalized. This concerns our partnership with the Russian Federation and involvement in the Eurasian Economic Union. [...] Armenia has signed a treaty with the EU which will enhance our cooperation across all areas. We intend to leverage this when designing and implementing our reforms.”

NIKOL PASHINYAN

Prime Minister of the Republic of Armenia

“It is a huge honour for me to be at this Forum today and join this discussion on sustainable development goals. [...] This agenda contains a vision and set of clear benchmarks which take into account the Fourth Industrial Revolution, climate change, and security threats. It is the 2030 Agenda. And it is crucial that everyone is involved.”

PETER PELLEGRINI

Prime Minister of the Slovak Republic

“Today, the St. Petersburg Forum espouses a 21st century truth – that global challenges require global solutions. No one country or organization can succeed alone. We need political leaders, scientists, philanthropists, and civil society to come together to tackle common threats and pursue shared objectives. That is why we are here.”
